“Activities at KTH Lighting Laboratory”

KTH Lighting Lab is engaged in educational and research activities that stimulate human centred innovation in the field of lighting design and technology, applied to the architectural space. Established in the year 2000, the lighting laboratory has an impact on the national and international market.

“Light and Architecture”

What is the impact of light in the architecture, how can it shape the environment and mental image of it in the users by the experience of it. A concrete approach to the relationship between light and architecture throughout different projects where daylight and artificial light shape the environment.
