Intended learning outcomes

Course contents

This course is an introduction to a series of concepts fundamental to the discipline of architecture, and an introduction to developments in the field. The objective of the course is to develop students' understanding, from a design perspective, of how architecture works as part of a series of spatial, cultural, technical, economic, political, social, and ecological processes, and to problematize the discipline of architecture based on issues of power, systems of aesthetic values, culture, and gender.

The course is divided into 3 parts (1 academic credit for each part). It ties into students' design studio work and reflects the various areas of the discipline of architecture represented in the KTH School of Architecture: Critical Studies, Basic Design, and Design Processes.

Examination

- MOM2 - Moment 2, 1.0 credits, grading scale: P, F

The examiner may apply another examination format when re-examining individual students.

Other requirements for final grade

The learning outcomes are examined through the records of the design process, and through the outcomes of the course specified assignments. To achieve the approved level (pass) students must have approved tasks, including 80% attendance at lectures, seminars, tutorials and reviews. A reflection on the individual learning process must be handed in.
