Lärandemål

The aim of the course to provide a deeper understanding of contemporary planning practice and research in Sweden and elsewhere, with special focus on problem analysis, methodological approach and inductive reasoning. After completing the course, students shall be able to:

- evaluate and critically analyse planning practice and research in Sweden, Europe and elsewhere
- identify research needs and transform them into a research project
- select a relevant research methodology that suit the anticipated result

Kursinnehåll

In the course planning practise in different countries is analysed in a comparative context. The course consists of lectures on contemporary planning studies from different parts of the world. Furthermore, the course consists of seminars in which results from empirical research will be discussed and analysed. In addition, various quantitative and qualitative methods for planning research will be addressed as tools for the assessment of urban and rural settlements patterns, analysis of planning practice, understanding of mechanisms for societal change and identification of future developments and needs. As part of the course students have to prepare a project description for his/her Master's project and present it.
