Active PhD students.

Language of instruction

The language of instruction is specified in the course offering information in the course catalogue.

Intended learning outcomes

To make students aware of issues related to research ethics.

For whom:

Graduate students

Course contents

Lectures and group work.

Disposition

Two lectures covering misconduct in research and questionable research practices followed by two seminars where the students present group work.

Course literature

Material handed out.

Examination

Based on recommendation from KTH's coordinator for disabilities, the examiner will decide how to adapt an examination for students with documented disability.

The examiner may apply another examination format when re-examining individual students.

If the course is discontinued, students may request to be examined during the following two academic years.

Other requirements for final grade

Attendance to all four seminars, presentation of group work, and active participation in discussions.

Ethical approach

- All members of a group are responsible for the group's work.
- In any assessment, every student shall honestly disclose any help received and sources used.
- In an oral assessment, every student shall be able to present and answer questions about the entire assignment and solution.
